Accurids offers software solutions and services for collaborative data standardization. Our clients are top-tier organizations in the life sciences industry. They use our software to centrally govern data managed by various groups within their organization, facilitating the alignment of terminologies and establishing a centralized hub for different data object identifiers as a universal reference point.

Accurids initiated and co-leads the IDMP Ontology project at the Pistoia Alliance, collaborating with 11 leading pharmaceutical companies. Together, we enhance the ISO standards for the IDentification of Medicinal Products using a digital and semantic graph data model, with our software serving as the reference implementation. Through this project we also collaborate with FDA, EMA, and WHO.
